WEEKLIES

CO-WORKING WITH CAL

THURSDAYS, FEB 15- JUNE 6 • 12-5PM

Bring your computer (or your typewriter) and join artist Calcagno Cullen, of the Archive as Action exhibition Thursday Afternoons during the run of the show. Cullen explores her own archive as an artist and as Director of Wave Pool, her socially engaged studio and gallery.

ROPEWALKS

WEEKDAYS 12-4pm

Artist Amanda Curreri and the RopeWalk Crew invite you to join them weekdays 12-4pm in the gallery. RopeWalk is an ongoing, participatory artwork inspired by American labor and immigration histories. Throughout the duration of the exhibition, recycled flag material will be deconstructed and repurposed into long colorful strands for rope-making. Please visit the exhibition for more information and to participate.

EXCHANGE WITH CALCAGNO CULLEN

Ticketed event - limited seats

This limited seating engagement is part of a dinner series presented by The Welcome Project to celebrate Cincinnati's unique neighborhoods and immigrant communities. Each meal is a team effort between an immigrant home cook, a Cincinnati native chef, and an artist who creates an interactive installation or activity for the dinner. The dinners are a place for conversation and bridging the divides within our cities.

#SPIKOW2

On 12/13/14 Lindsey Whittle and Clint Basinger (both artists) had their wedding reception at the CAC titled #spikow. They saw this as a way to curate a museum experience in a night in case they never showed in a museum. That night, they asked many of their friends to give them performances at the wedding as a wedding gift. This event has become legend in their circle and many people they have met since wish they could have attended. Since their marriage is the foundation for much of Whittle's work, it felt right to revisit the ideas of that night and evolve the performance experience that happened in 2014 now that Whittle is part of a show in that very same museum.

ONGOING

Additional RopeWalks will be performed throughout the run of the exhibition and are open to participation. Please visit the exhibition for more information and to participate.
